MRS. PIGGOTT

Writes From Atlantic City Of Her Visit East--Had A Pleasant Visit In Washington With Mrs. Sallie Miller Parker.

I am sitting on the sand looking seaward. The tide is going out and the wind is rising and the clouds are thickening. It is not a calm, smiling sea now as it was this morning. The whitecaps are speaking in their own majestic language of the dangers as well as the delights to "those who go down to the sea in ships." The Titanic horror is just one week old and yet it is one theme on every tongue. This morning from the pulpits in the East it was expected that vital lessons would be drawn from the great disaster. We went to the Methodist church and heard a strong, sane, helpful sermon developed from Jeremiah's vision of the clay in the potter's hands. There was a church full of people although the sea and the sun moved mightily the lover of nature. It is not all worldliness and wickedness even at Atlantic City. There are more than seven thousand who have not bowed the knee to Baal, though there are many Eliahs who think that "I only am left to serve the Lord."

I spent the week of the council meeting in Washington, the guest of Sallie Miller Parker, your former townswoman, she and her husband are perfect embodiments of gracious and cordial hospitality. A sojourn with them is truly a delight.

Was much edified by the intimate contact with the great plans and purposes of Missions as developed under the beautiful spirit of Union. How it is broadening the spiritual life of our women and enlarging their vision of "the greatest good to the greatest number." The church South is setting a pace for other Methodisms in this broad development of United Missions and they will not refuse to follow when the time is ripe. The Conferences are rapidly uniting and many memorials have gone up to the council asking for more definite legislation pertaining to it. It was a great day for Southern Methodism when United Missions was given to the church by our leaders two years ago.

Just as I reached this point in the consideration of this vital question, I was surrounded by a company of small boys. They have never seen me before nor I them, but they must have recognized a kindred spirit. There are eight of them and they range in age from eight to twelve. They intimate that it is their purpose to drive me away from my sand bank. They have thrown down the gauntlet and I cannot without dishonor refuse to take it up. It means a sand battle but here goes though my best gown should suffer.

Truly,

Clare J. Piggott,
Haddon Hall, Atlantic City, N. J.

Base Ball Team Meets Defeat At Leitchfield--Will Play On Home Field Next Saturday Great Victory Expected.

B. C. H. S. Base Ball team met their Titanic last Saturday on the Leitchfield ball park. The boys at Leitchfield are an ideal bunch of fellows and the game was just as fair as they or anybody else could make it. The Hardinsburg boys are quick and fast but not old enough yet to be sure.

The game was not what the Hardinsburg boys could have made it. It was on account of wild throws and bad batting that the game stands as it is, 10 to 0.

They play Hardinsburg next Saturday.

Wild Throws Brought Defeat.

day at Hardinsburg and it is not thought that the game next Saturday will terminate as the last one. B. C. H. S. is backed by the school spirit that hovers over Hardinsburg, and when the boys don't come up to the standard of the patrons you can tell it by their actions and expression. But when they are at home and get down to play, like they practice, then L. H. S. had better show more class than they did last Saturday. or they are certain to be defeated.

The line up of B. C. H. S. was Murray Brown, C; Rob Curtis, 1 B; Irwin Taylor, 2 B; Francis Dillon, Short; Gilbert Macy, 3 B; Bruner, R. F.; Nat Shellman, L. F.; Hoben, P and C. F.; Basham, P. and C. F.

RIDE OXEN

To Town While Horses Work. Nat Arms And His Neighbor, Mr. Arnold, Lose Nearly Ten Dozen Eggs.

Hardinsburg, Apr. 29. (Special)—On one of the bright days recently when all plows were going and no horse could be spared from the field Nat Arms and his neighbor, Mr. Arnold, of the Dorrett's Creek neighborhood, had to come to town. Unlike Jule Jackson on Convention Day, they felt they must ride. Horses being out of the question, each haltered and saddled an ox, Mr. Arms carefully carrying to market a basket containing ten dozen of eggs. All went well until they were within a hundred yards of their dismounting place when a little town dog perched up his ears at the unusual sight, and ran into the street barking with a fierceness equal to his surprise. This was too much for the beast which carried Mr. Arms and the 120 eggs. It began to flee from the dog and to rush wildly down the street, and though it never un-oxed the rider, it did un-egg the basket and scatter broken shells and the meat of the eggs until all but one dozen were broken. Luckily there was no further damage done.

PROCEEDINGS

Of April Term Of Breckenridge County Fiscal Court Held In The Court House In Hardinsburg, Kentucky.

At a regular term of the Breckenridge County Fiscal Court, held in and for Breckenridge County at the court house in Hardinsburg, Kentucky on the 2nd day of April, 1912.

Present were Hon. L. L. Waggoner, Judge of the Breckenridge County Court, presiding with the following named Justices of the peace; namely, G. A. Wright, Geo. N. Harris, Sam Dix, M. P. Payne, D. I. Quiggins and B. A. Whittinghill this being all the justices in commission.

Breckenridge County Fiscal Court.

Lon Glascock, et al.,

On Petition For Bridge

Order

This day came the commissioners herein, John N. Akers and Henry Cannon, who were appointed at a former term of this court to examine into the necessity and advisability of erecting a bridge at Galloway Ford across North Fork of Rough creek, and filed a report recommending the construction of a bridge near said ford, and the Road and Bridge Supervisor of Breckenridge county having been directed to accompany them, and make recommendations as to the necessity of said bridge, also filed a report recommending the construction of the bridge as reported, and the said report of the Commissioners and Supervisor is made a part of this record and ordered recorded, and is in words and figures as follows:

"We, the undersigned, John N. Akers and Henry Cannon, Commissioners appointed at the Jan. 6, 1912, called term of this court, to examine a point at the Galloway ford across the North Fork of Rough creek, as to the necessity and advisability of erecting a bridge at said point, respectfully report as follows:

We examined the proposed site for a bridge across Rough creek at the Galloway Ford, on March 26th, 1912 and were accompanied by the County Road Supervisor. A great number of citizens from the surrounding community were present, and we carefully examined the bridge site and received from these people suggestions and information that we deem valuable and hereinafter report.

We did not find it practicable to construct a bridge across the creek at the Galloway Ford proper, but we find a suitable point for the proper location of such a bridge about sixty (60) yards up the creek from where the county road intersects the creek at the ford. At the point mentioned, sixty (60) yards above the present ford, we find that a bridge with a span of one hundred and five (105) feet will be sufficient, and on one side the bridge will rest on an apparently solid lime stone rock foundation, and the other end will reach the bank, which appears to be solid and of such a nature as to make a foundation for concrete or stone. No drills or grading will be necessary to go into the bridge from either side. Two bridge companies had representatives present and they assisted us in making our estimates and measurements.

Address

Dr.

Earl S. Sloan

Boston, Mass.

We believe the bridge can be constructed for two thousand five hundred (2500 00) dollars, and, if the cliff can be used as an abutment on one side, it may not cost that much.

Your Commissioners further report that, in their opinion, the construction of the said bridge at this point is necessary for the convenience of a very large section of Breckenridge county, and that the ford, as now used, is impassable a great part of the year and very dangerous; that a great deal of hauling, milling and traveling is done by the community, which is cut off from Hardinsburg, the county seat, because of being unable to cross North Fork at this point; that Hardinsburg is the tobacco market, the mill point, the banking point, and a general trading point for the people cut off by North Fork; that said bridge is necessary for the locality cut off by the North Fork of Rough Creek to reach their respective railroad stations on the Louisville, Henderson & St. Louis Railway; that at the present time a large portion of one of the best sections of Breckenridge county is compelled, by reason of not having a bridge at suggested point, to go farther to the town of Leitchfield in another county to transact their various kinds of business; that this works a discrimination against our county seat, and that same, in our opinion, can and should be remedied by the construction of this much needed bridge; and we further say that a reasonable good road may be had to the bridge, as proposed on either side of the creek.

So, weighing the necessity for the said bridge and the location of same, surroundings and consequence generally, we unqualifiedly recommend to this Honorable Court the immediate construction at the point by us proposed.

Respectfully submitted this March 29, 1912.

John N. Akers.

H. A. Cannon.

SUPERVISOR'S REPORT.

I J. P. Garner, Supervisor of Roads for Breckenridge County, Kentucky, respectfully report that I accompanied the Commissioners who made the foregoing report; that I have read their report, as signed by them, and find that the statements therein made are true, and that, in my opinion, for reasons they suggest and others, this bridge should be constructed as the Commissioners report and suggest. I, therefore, concur in their report and recommend officially the construction of this bridge at the point suggested.

It was further moved that when a contract was entered into, that the Supervisor of Roads and Bridges supervise the construction of said bridge, under the contract as made by the Fiscal Court. Said motion was duly carried and same is made the order of this court. Whereupon the court directed the Road & Bridge Supervisor to supervise the execution of the said contract, and he will report his acts in the premises to this court.

Minutes read and approved and court adjourned until 9:00 a. m. April 3.

At a regular term of the Breckinridge County Fiscal Court continued and held in and for Breckinridge county at the Courthouse in Hardinsburg, Ky., on the third day of April, 1912. Present, Hon. L. L. Waggoner, Judge of the Breckinridge county court, presiding, with the following named Justices of the Peace namely: G. A. Wright, Geo. N. Harris, S. H. Dix, M. P. Payne, D. Quiggins and B. A. Whittinghill, being all of the justices in commission.

Came Justice G. A. Wright and moved the court, seconded by Justice Sam Dix that the levy in Breckinridge county for the year, 1912, be eighteen cents on the one hundred dollars in value of taxable property, divided into three funds, to-wit: General expense fund, which shall include the salaries of all officers and all current expenses nine (9) cents; sinking fund four (4) cents; pauper fund five (5) cents, and each tax so levied shall not be directed to any other purpose than that for which it was levied, except as prescribed by law, and further that there be levied a per capita or poll tax, on each male 21 years or over, resident in the county aforesaid of $1.50, one dollar and fifty cents for said year of 1912, and said poll tax so levied shall be apportioned to the following purposes, to-wit: for road purposes, fifty cents, and for general expense fund $1.00 and said tax of fifty cents shall be devoted to work upon and expense of working the public highways in the district in which it is collected, and further that the levy for road and bridge purposes be and remain at the sum heretofore levied to-wit: 25 cents on the $100.00 in value of taxable property, but divided as follows: 12½ cents for roads and 12½ cents for bridges and further that taxes collected for road purposes from property situated in each magisterial district of the county shall be allotted to each district in which it is collected; and the same shall be applied to roads and culverts in each district, but the taxes collected for bridge purposes shall be expended where necessary in the discretion of the authorities expending same, and further that all persons required to work on the public highways, by law, work four days in said year, 1912, but no more than two days in each week, except in cases of emergencies when such hands may be required to work any number of days in the week or year to meet such emergencies, and that all overseers require the road hands in their districts to comply with this order as required by law.

And whereas at a meeting of the County Board of Education of Breckinridge county, held on March 25, 1912, it was ordered that an ad valorem tax of 20 cents on each $100 worth of taxable property, and a per capita tax of $1.00 on each male citizen over twenty-one be levied, except such property as is exempted by law, and whereas a copy of said order has been presented to this court, it is further ordered that the school tax for the year 1912, as provided in sections 98 and 99 of the school

Do You Get Up

With a Lame Back?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everyone knows of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because of its remarkable health restoring properties. Swamp-Root fulfills almost every wish in overcoming rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble, it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been thoroughly tested in private practice, and has proved so successful that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Homeopathic Remedy Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all druggists. Don't make any mistake but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

WAY TO JUDGE A PITCHER IS TO WATCH HIM PITCH

"The only way to tell anything about a pitcher is to see him pitch," said Jim McGuire, the Cleveland scout, in response to a question as to what he thought of some of the youngsters of the Detroit Tiger squad at Monroe, La., recently. "These boys have all the actions of pitchers so far as anyone can see from the practice stunts, but until they have been under fire I decline to pass final judgment on them."

"To my mind the ideal athlete is the one who is best when the necessity for being strong is greatest. It's that old lighting spirit that counts. There are lots of fellows who are wonders in practice, no matter what line of sport they may be engaged in. But parlor boxers seldom are fighters, and many fine warm-up pitchers fall down terribly when they come to lace the music in a regular game."

"Many a time I have warmed up men who had everything that I ever have seen a pitcher display. Speed, curves, control, and everything else would be theirs, and I would feel confident that they would be able to win that day if we got them a couple of runs. Then these fellows would go out to the center of the diamond and show me about half of what they had displayed in warming up practice."

"It isn't always a lack of gameness that accounts for a pitcher's failure to do as well in a game as in practice. Some of the men are so anxious to win that they work themselves into a stew. There are plenty of fellows who are game, yet can't do their best when they want to. It seems to be a sort of a sort of a baseball instinct that enables the great pitcher to rise to the emergency. He has that fighting spirit but at the same time keeps his head cool."

"The youngsters of the Detroit squad might pitch great ball when handing them up to the batters in practice with nothing depending on the outcome of the sluggers' efforts and yet fall down against even a mediocre club in a regular game. I have seen it repeatedly happen that a twirler would make the batsmen of a strong American league club look bad when he was pitching to them in practice and then let some class D or college nine hammer him all over the place."

WHO ARE THE PARTY WRECKERS?

The Louisville Evening Post says: We find in the Louisville Times the following remarks under the caption "The Party Wreckers."

The fact that Percy Haly is again at the helm in party affairs was made clear at the meeting of the State Democratic Committee Saturday. Recalling the further fact that Mr. Haly, at the behest of his master, J. C. W. Beckham, succeeded in so disrupting the party when last at the helm as to make inevitable the election of Augustus E. Willson, and reading in the committee's action the decision to return to the Beckham-Haly scheme of making fish out of Louisville and fowl out of the rest of the State, the feeling of regret that Gov. McCreary should consent to be dominated by influences of such sinister portent to Democratic success is not less keen than is resentment natural that the Democracy of the Fifth district, which did its duty so loyally in Gov. McCreary's election, should again be singled out for discrimination to satisfy the grudge held against it by the party's wreckers.

Mr. Haly was not in charge of the campaign of 1907. The Democratic ticket in the State went to defeat that year because the Democratic machine in Louisville, encouraged by the Haldeman newspapers, refused to support Mayor Bingham and brought out as a Democratic candidate for Mayor, a gentleman who promised to open the saloons on Sunday if elected. The Democratic party was wrecked that year by the treachery of the Democratic machine in Louisville. A few months later three Louisville Democrats, so-called, voted to make W. O. Bradley Senator, in order to prevent the election of Mr. Beckham.

Last year the State fight was made by Mr. McCreary, Mr. Beckham, Mr. Mayo, Mr. Haly and others. Without the aid of Haldeman newspapers they won the finest Democratic victory of thirty years.

The real party wreckers are right here in Louisville, and the Democrats of the State seem to be aware of the facts.

HAVE YOUR TITLE CLEAR.

Sam Henninger, who sold his farm recently, was in the County Clerk's office Monday looking up his title to make a deed. His land had been conveyed to him by several parties. He thought all his deeds had been recorded, but when his attorneys examined the records they found one deed did not appear on the records. When he examined his own papers he could not find it, so he will be put to considerable expense and trouble to get the missing paper. This all comes from not having it recorded at the time it was made. County Clerk Beard says there are many cases of this kind coming up in his office. The thing to do is to have a deed or mortgage or any other paper that requires recording, to have it done at once and not hold it as Mr. Henninger did in this case. It is very important to have your title clear in this world as well as in the next.

M. H. BEARD A CANDIDATE.

The Louisville papers announced last week that the friends of Morris H. Beard, the Banker, are determined to send him as a delegate to the National Democratic Convention from the Fourth District. As Mr. Beard has always been an ardent supporter of Ben Johnson, and was also a supporter of Gov. McCreary and the present administration, he will be a hard man to defeat if he announces.

In writing of the recent Presidential duel the Louisville Herald says: "The situation is one that must be regretted, and by none more than by those who, like The Herald, admire both men and hold them in honor for the service they have done the people. It is to be regretted, equally because it creates an irreparable breach between distinguished public men, whose friendship was at one time tenderly intimate, and because it is dividing the party that each is seeking, with all sincerity, to serve. It is making victory for the party more and more doubtful. It is opening the way for a Democratic victory that may spell disaster for the country." The way for a Democratic victory is already opened, and the Taft-Roosevelt controversy only broadens it. That the Democratic victory will be a disaster to the Republican party and not to the country as The Herald sees it.

Stanley Brashear is a young man with backbone. Instead of going off to a city or town, he has rented a 400-acre farm—Mrs. Skillman's place, near Irvington—and will try his hand farming on his own hook this year. His teachings and experience, his love for the work particularly fits him for the place and we know he will succeed. Where there is a will there is a way, and there is no better way than farming when you know how. Stanley is a son of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Brashear, of Frymire, and is unmarried. This is not an advertisement for a wife for the young man, but a well wishing notice of encouragement to his efforts. We need more good farmers in this country, and it is as high a calling as any young man can engage in.

It is not the lot of all of us to visit the beautiful and important cities of our country, but glad we are that some of our own people have the fortune to enjoy such opportunities and to share the pleasures of their visits with those back home. This week we are publishing a simple and sincere letter from Mrs. Walter J. Piggott, written from Atlantic City where she and Mr. Piggott celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage. The excitement and glory of the East pictured by her in the few words she has sent will be uplifting and of a welcome nature to our readers.

The damp, cold rains during the last week have been rather discouraging to our farmers and business men. Still we may congratulate ourselves that we have escaped the dreadful cyclones that have gone all over the West and destroyed life as well as property.

Herbert Beard, Jesse R. Eskridge and Amiel Oelze went to Frankfort last week and got the live per cent. raise on town lots in this county released, for which all town folks are grateful.

Don't forget to honor the best mother who ever lived—your own—by sending a little tribute to her for the News next week.

LIME AND DYNAMITE

Being Used Over The County. E. B. Barbee, Of Stephensport, And J. E. King, Experiment And Expect Great Results.

E. B. Barbee, of Stephensport, says he is going to try three-fourths of an acre in alfalfa. He will put the ground in thorough order like he was fixing it for an onion bed. Then he will drill in it 200 pounds of slack lime and 1 1/2 pounds of fertilizer, and sow it in alfalfa. He got this idea from the farm train.

Mr. Barbee has a small piece of land that was limed several years ago. He sowed this in wheat where the lime had been used and received double the amount of wheat that he got on the land where no lime was used. Mr. Barbee says that lime keeps sage brush from growing and he considers it most valuable to land for wheat.

J. E. King and son, of Irvington, are using dynamite on their young orchard of three acres. The explosion of the dynamite loosens up the soil for many yards around, giving the tree roots a better opportunity to spread out than when the hole is dug by hand.

WHY does the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company pay claims that no other company would pay? Because all the values of the policy begin with the first year

WHY are old policy-holders always satisfied with his policy? Because a policy issued 50 years ago has all the values of the policy issued at the present date, and because his dividends has been most satisfactory; and because he has always felt a sense of security in having his insurance in this company.

WHY are new policy-holders satisfied with their policy? Because he has a contract that is not duplicated by any other company; and because the securities held by the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company are the best to be had; and because the tradition of the Mutual Benefit has been to give every policy-holder a "SQUARE DEAL."

In Memory Of A Sister.

A year has passed since you and I were parted. A year of tears, of sorrow and of woe. And yet we linger, sad and broken hearted; Our heads still bowed beneath that awful blow. We cannot see the sun in all its splendor

The spring birds bring no joy to us. A dear sister to me was very tender. We know no hope, no joy while lacking thee.

This long and lonesome year, oh, how we have missed her. Friends may think the wound is healed But little do they know the sorrow that lies within our hearts concealed.

And 'tis with an aching heart That we recall that sad and lonely day.

When the Lord took from us a sister in the best of her days.

And had you ask me, well I know We would have said, oh, God spare us the blow.

Yes with streaming eyes, we would have prayed; Oh, "Lord" we loved her, let her stay. This world is full of sorrow, full of trouble and of pain,

Yet to us it would be heaven if Mattie was only with us again. In love she lived, in peace she died; Her life was asked, but God denied.

A precious one from us is gone. A voice we loved is stilled. A vacant chair is in our house That never can be filled.

What she was to us in life we know, now that she is gone; Oft from our hearts comes a bitter cry, Why, oh why, did our dear sister die?

To father she would say: All is well with me father, oh, dry up thy tears; The heart of thy child is not saddened by fears.

By faith in my Saviour, my sorrows all flee. And rejoice the redemption was purchased for me.

To mother: Oh, grieve not dear mother, it's well with thy child, God gave me, He takes me, his chastenings are mild;

He views with compassion my pathway of care, He sees my affliction and answers my prayer.

CHAPTER III.

In Darkest Chicago.

The castaways from the wrecked taxicab hurried along the doleful street. Both of them knew their Chicago, but this part of it was not their Chicago.

They halted a pedestrian, to ask where the nearest street car line might be, and whither it might run. He answered indistinctly from a discreet distance, as he hastened away. Perhaps he thought their question merely a footpad's introduction to a sandbagging episode. In Chicago at night one never knows.

"As near as I can make out what he said, Marjorie," the lieutenant pondered aloud, "we walk straight ahead till we come to Umptypump street, and there we find a Ramra car that will take us to Floptyplop avenue. I never heard of any such streets, did you?"

"Never," she panted, as she jogged trotted alongside his military pace. "Let's take the first car we meet, and perhaps the conductor can put us off at the street where the minister lives."

"Perhaps." There was not much confidence in that "perhaps."

When they reached the street-carred street, they found two tracks, but nothing occupying them, as far as they could peer either way. A small shopkeeper in a tiny shop proved to be a delicatessen merchant so busily selling foreign horrors to aliens, that they learned nothing from him.

At length, in the far-away, they made out a headlight, and heard the grind and squeal of a car. Lieutenant Mallory waited for it, watch in hand. He boosted Marjorie's elbow aboard and bombarded the conductor with questions. But the conductor had no more heard of their street than they had of his. Their agitation did not disturb his stolid calm, but he invited them to come along to the next crossing, where they could find another car and more learned conductors; or, what promised better, perhaps a cab.

He threw Marjorie into a panic by ordering her to jettison Snoozeleums, but the lieutenant bought his soul for a small price, and overlooked the fact that he did not rink up their fares.

The young couple squeezed into a seat and talked anxiously in sharp whispers.

"Wouldn't it be terrible, Harry, if, just as we got to the minister's, we should find papa there ahead of us, waiting to forbid the bands, or whatever it is? Wouldn't it be just terrible?"

"Yes, it would, honey, but it doesn't seem probable. There are thousands of ministers in Chicago. He could never find ours. Fact is, I doubt if we find him ourselves."

Her clutch tightened till he would have winced, if he had not been a soldier.

"What do you mean, Harry?"

"Well, in the first place, honey, look what time it is. Hardly more than time to get the train, to say nothing of hunting for that preacher and standing up through a long rigmarole."

"Why, Harry Mallory, are you getting ready to jilt me?"

"Indeed I'm not—not for worlds, honey, but I've got to get that train, haven't I?"

"Couldn't you wait over one train—

just one tiny little train?"

"My own, own honey love, you know it's impossible! You must remember that I've already waited over three trains while you tried to make up your mind."

"And you must remember, darling, that it's no easy matter for a girl to decide to sneak away from home and be married secretly, and go all the way out to that hideous Manila with no trousseau and no wedding presents and no anything."

"I know it isn't, and I waited patiently while you got up the courage. But now there are no more trains. I shudder to think of this train being late. We're not due in San Francisco till Thursday evening, and my transport sails at sunrise Friday morning. Oh, Lord, what if I should miss that transport! What if I should?"

"What if we should miss the minister?"

"It begins to look a great deal like it."

"But, Harry, you wouldn't desert me now—abandon me to my fate?"

"Well, it isn't exactly like abandonment, seeing that you could go home to your father and mother in a taxicab."

She stared at him in horror.

"So you don't want me for your wife! You've changed your mind! You're tired of me already! Only an hour together, and you're sick of your bargain! You're anxious to get rid of me! You—"

"Oh, honey, I want you more than anything else on earth, but I'm a soldier, dearie, a mere lieutenant in the regular army, and I'm the slave of the government. I've gone through West Point, and they won't let me resign respectably and if I did, we'd starve. They wouldn't accept my resignation, but they'd be willing to court-martial me and dismiss me from the service in disgrace. Then you wouldn't want to marry me—and I shouldn't have any way of supporting you if you did. I only know one trade, and that's soldiering."

"Don't call it a trade, beloved, it's the noblest profession in all the world, and you're the noblest soldier that ever was, and in a year or two you'll be the biggest general in the army."

He could not afford to shatter such a devout illusion or quench the light of faith in those beloved and loving eyes. He tacitly admitted his ability to be promoted commander-in-chief in a year or two. He allowed that glittering possibility to remain, used it as a basis for argument.

"Then, dearest, you must help me to do my duty."

She clasped his upper arm as if it were an altar and she an Iphigenia about to be sacrificed to save the army. And she murmured with utter heroism:

"I will! Do what you like with me!"

He squeezed her hand between his biceps and his ribs and accepted the offering in a look drenched with gratitude. Then he said, matter-of-factly: "We'll see how much time we have when we get to—whatever the name of that street is."

The car jolted and walled on its way like an old drifting rocking chair. The motorman was in no hurry. The passengers seemed to have no occasion for haste. Somebody got on or got off at almost every corner, and paused for conversation while the car waited patiently. But eventually the conductor put his head in and drawled:

"Haw! Here's where you get out."

They hastened to debark and found themselves in a narrow, gaudily-lighted region where they saw a noisy transfer-distributor, a profound scholar in Chicago streets. He informed them that the minister's street lay far back along the path they had come; they should have taken a car in the opposite direction, transferred at some remote center, descended at some unheard-of street, walked three blocks one way and four another, and there they would have been.

Mallory looked at his watch, and Marjorie's hopes dropped like a wrecked aeroplane, for he grimly asked how long it would take them to reach the railroad station.

"Well, you'd ought to make it in forty minutes," the transfer agent said—and added, cynically, "if the car makes schedule."

"Good Lord, the train starts in twenty minutes!"

"Well, I tell you—take this, here green car to Wexford avenue—there's usually a taxicab or two standing there."

"Thank you. Hop on, Marjorie."

Marjorie hopped on, and they sat down, Mallory with eyes and thoughts on nothing but the watch he kept in his hand.

During this tense journey the girl perfected her soul with graceful martyrdom.

"I'll go to the train with you, Harry, and then you can send me home in a taxicab."

Her nether lip trembled and her eyes were filled, but they were brave, and her voice was so tender that it wooed his mind from his watch. He gazed at her, and found her so dear, so devoted and so pitifully exquisite, that he was almost overcome by an impulse to gather her into his arms there and then, indifferent to the immediate passengers or to his far-off military superiors. An hour ago they were young lovers in all the lift and thrill of elopement. She had clung to him in the gloaming of their taxicab, as it sped like a genie at their whim to the place where the minister would unite their hands and raise his own in blessing. Thence the new husband would have carried the new wife away, his very own, soul and body, duty and beauty. Then, ah, then in their minds the future was an unwaning honeymoon, the journey across the continent, a stroll along a lover's lane, the Pacific ocean a garden lake, and the Philippines a chain of Fortunate Isles decreed especially for their Eden. And then the taxicab encountered a lamppost. They thought they had merely wrecked a motor car—and lo, they had wrecked a Paradise.

The railroad ceased to be a lover's lane and became a lingering torment; the ocean was a weltering Sahara, and the Philippines a Dry Tortugas of exile.

Mallory realized for the first time what heavy burdens he had taken on with his shoulder straps; what a dismal life of restrictions and hardships an officer's life is bound to be. It was hard to obey the soulless machinery of discipline, to be a brass-buttoned slave. He felt all the hot, quick resentment that turns a faithful soldier into a deserter. But it takes time to evolve a deserter, and Mallory had only twenty minutes. The handcuffs and legions of discipline hobbled him. He was only a little cog in a great clock, and the other wheels were impinging on him and revolving in spite of himself.

In the close-packed seats where they were jostled and stared at, the soldier could not even attempt to explain to his fascinated bride the war of motives in his breast. He could not voice the passionate rebellion her beauty had whipped up in his soul. Perhaps if Romeo and Juliet had been married to say farewell on a Chicago street car instead of a veronese balcony, their language would have lacked savor, too.

Perhaps young Mr. Montague and young Miss Capulet, instead of wailing, "No, that is not the lark whose notes do beat the vaulted heaven so high above our heads," would have done no better than Mr. Mallory and Miss Newton. In any case, the best these two could squeeze out was:

"It's just too bad, honey."

"But I guess it can't be helped, dear."

"It's a mean old world, isn't it?"

"Awful!"

And then they must pile out into the street again so lost in woe that they did not know how they were trampled or elbowed. Marjorie's despair was so complete that it paralyzed instinct. She forgot Snoozeleums! A thoughtful passenger ran out and tossed the basket into Mallory's arms even as the car moved off.

Fortune relented a moment and they found a taxicab waiting where they had expected to find it. Once more they were cosy in the lying twilight, but their grief was their only baggage, and the clasp of their hands talked all the talk there was. Anxiety within anxiety tormented them and they feared another wreck. But as they swooped down upon the station, a kind-faced tower clock beamed the reassurance that they had three minutes to spare.

The taxicab drew up and halted, but they did not get out. They were kissing good-byes, fervidly and numerously, while a grinning station-porter winked at the winking chauffeur.

Marjorie simply could not have done with farewells.

"I'll go to the gate with you," she said.

He told the chauffeur to wait and take the young lady home. The lieutenant looked so honest and the girl so sad that the chauffeur simply touched his cap, though it was not his custom to allow strange fares to vanish into crowded stations, leaving behind nothing more negotiable than instructions to wait.

If The Telephone

Girl Should Tell--?

The Telephone Girl sits still in her chair, And listens to voices from everywhere. She knows who is happy, and who has the blues, And the kind of language that we all use, She knows our sorrows—she knows our joys, She knows every girl that is chasing the boys, She knows our troubles, she knows our strife, She knows every man is mean to his wife, She knows every time we are out with the boys, She hears the excuses each fellow employs, She knows every woman who has a past, She knows every man who is inclined to be fast. In fact, there's a secret 'neath each saucy curl, Of the quite, demure little Telephone Girl.

If the Telephone Girl should tell all she knows, It would turn half our friends into bitterest foes, She could sow a small wind that would soon be a gale, Swamp us with troubles and land us in jail. She would turn loose a story, that gaining in force, Would cause half our wives to sue for divorce, She would get all the churches mixed up in a fight, And turn all our days into sorrowing nights. She could keep the whole town in a terrible stew, If she'd tell one-tenth of all that she knew. Now, doesn't it set your brain in a whirl, When you think what you owe the Telephone Girl.

"Cat Meat" Money Spent For Spring Improvements

Miller & Black have just recently cleaned up and freshly painted their meat shop. The expense of their improvements was met by the money the customers paid for the meat they bought for their cats, nearly all of it was in pennies. The plan was made by Mr. Herbert Moorman and will be carried out this year again. Mr. Moorman has given up his job at the meat market and has the caller's place at the L. H. & St. L. shops.

SHADE TREES PRESERVE ROAD

Their Value in Making Highways Durable.

The value of shade trees in preserving roads is pointed out by an enthusiastic letter recently printed in the Manchester (N. H.) Union. The writer deprecates the misdirected activity of the average selectman and advocates the planting of shade trees rather than their removal, asserting that they are a help to the roads.

"Perhaps no other agency," he says, "has contributed so much to the desolation of naturally beautiful districts in New England as what is in up country parlance called the seelectman. He is a big man in his town and, with his brothers on the board, controls the finances, schools, roads and all matters of town government and improvement.

"His one great achievement while in office is to cut down all the shade trees or whatever might grow to be shade trees along the roads. He, as a rule, knows nothing of road building, and, believing that the only way to get rid of water is to dry it up instead of constructing his road of material elasticity of the road surface, there is no danger of mud if the road is properly constructed.

"If you can't build your roads with asphalt or oil, plant some shade trees. Make your town comfortable for yourself and your family and so attractive by its good roads and shady ways that the stranger will buy the worthless half of your farm for twice what any farmer would pay for your entire property, land, buildings, stock and mortgage.

"Then the rest of your life you can sell the purchaser anything you raise on the fertile part of your farm that you retained and get employment for your teams and your boys helping him to spend his money on the old stony pastures you sold to him. Meantime he will pay the town more taxes in five years than your place previously paid in twenty-five. But you will never catch him in a town that cuts the trees and bushes from the roadsides."

DISCOVERS A WAY TO PREVENT HAIL

French Physician's Device a Great Benefit to Farmers.

The Comte de Beauchamp, a distinguished Paris physician, is hailed as one of the greatest benefactors of agriculture that France has ever known owing to his discovery of an efficacious hail destroyer.

Some time ago the count discovered that hail cannot form when there is no electricity in the air. In the course of a long series of experiments, in which he was assisted by General De Negrier, he has perfected an instrument like a lightning conductor which drains the atmosphere of any electricity with which it is charged.

For some time past this hail destroyer has been working with success in rural districts formerly particularly subject to hailstorms, which, it is estimated, cost the farmers and fruit growers of the country not less than $40,000,000 a year.

Convinced by these results, the Paris municipal council has decided to install in the capital a system of hail destroyers.

They will be placed at three of the highest points of the city—namely, at the summits of the Eiffel tower, the Sacre Coeur and the Pantheon—forming a vast protective triangle.

The provinces are following the example of the capital, and before long, it is expected, the entire country will be provided with the count's invention, which has the enthusiastic support of the Academy of Sciences.

NEW BILL AGAINST TRUSTS.

Williams' Measure to Regulate Corporations in Interstate Commerce. A bill to prescribe the conditions under which corporations may engage in interstate commerce has been introduced in the senate by Senator John Sharp Williams of Mississippi.

It is provided in the bill that no corporation shall engage in interstate commerce unless it is organized under laws that provide it shall do nothing to restrain trade and that it shall do nothing outside the state of its incorporation that it is not permitted to do therein.

The bill provides that no corporation, association or partnership shall have any vote or voice in the affairs of another corporation. A section of the measure provides that the capital stock of a corporation engaging in interstate commerce shall be fully paid and payable, and it places a limitation upon its surplus at any time to 50 per cent of the outstanding capital stock and its indebtedness to not more than the outstanding stock and surplus.

The forfeiture of the right to engage in interstate commerce and a fine equal to 10 per cent of the capital stock of the offending corporation is fixed as the penalty for violation of provisions of the bill.

A PAPER ALL FOR WOMEN.

Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont Behind the Project.

Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont is planning to start a daily newspaper to be managed by women and devoted entirely to their interests. She declared that women did not have a fair representation in the news of the day and thought the time was ripe for women to come to the front editorially.

Mrs. Belmont's plans have not taken definite shape, but she said she was serious in the matter. Her ideal, she announced, "would be a paper which is not bound by any financial, political or social obligation to suppress one bit of news or to alter its tone."

FEDERAL AUTOMOBILE LAW.

Measure Providing a License Good All Over For $10.

A federal automobile law is proposed in a bill introduced in the house by Representative Volsted of Minnesota. It provides that for the payment of $10 a year the good roads bureau shall issue a federal automobile license to any person applying in good faith.

A provision in the bill makes the federal license good all over the United States, subjects the automobile owners to those fees only and similarly restrictive charges which prevail in the state in which the owner lives.

It is said that the most perfect road in the world is the coral rock road of the West Indies, being porous, elastic, dry and never dusty.

PAPER BAG COOKING

Great System Perfected by M. Soyer, Famous London Chef.

REINFORCED FISH DISHES.

By Martha McCulloch Williams. Fish is especially good for brain-workers, through supplying phosphorus, of which the brain stands always in need to repair its own waste. But where fish comes frequently to table it ought to have the reinforcement of nitrogenous substances, such as milk and eggs. There are some fish dishes which are particularly adapted to paper bag cooking. Before undertaking them it is well to have in hand sundry paper souffle cases. Though the fish are to be cooked in paper bags, a la Soyer, the cases make the cooking somewhat easier, and the serving very much more slightly.

But rissoles or patties require no cases. Fish pudding and fish custard can be cooked and served beautifully in shells of pastry, baked in a mold, then taken out, filled and slid into a paper bag. All the dishes require cooked fish, either baked or boiled. You can do either in the paper bag. For boiling, put in with the cleaned fish a tumbler of water, seal the greased bag, and cook in a hot oven fifteen to twenty minutes. Baking requires less water and about the same time in the oven.

For fish custard, free the cooked fish from all skin and bone, cut up, but not too small, and season to taste with salt and black and red pepper with a grate of nutmeg if desired. Lay without packing in a buttered souffle case and cover with a custard thus proportioned: Beat two whole eggs and one extra yolk very light, add a pint of sweet milk and a pinch of salt. Beat all well together. Put the case in a bag, which will need but little greasing, seal and set in a very moderate oven for half an hour. Make a peep hole, look in and if the custard is not firmly set, cook until it is. Serve very hot, garnished with curled parsley.

Begin fish rissole and patties by making good puff paste. While it gets properly cold, flake fine a pint of fish, freeing it of bone and skin. Season with butter, salt and pepper to taste and a very little finely minced onion. Roll the paste rather thin and cut out circles with a saucer. Put a spoonful of minced fish on half of each circle, fold over, pinch tight, brush over with beaten egg, then put in a bag with a lump of butter and cook in a very hot oven for eight minutes.

For patties bake the pastry into tiny shells, fill them with the minced fish, sprinkle on top grated cheese, slip in a bag and cook ten minutes in a moderate oven. These are not quite so rich as the rissoles which are in effect fried in the bag.

Fish timbale requires two cups of cold fish, chopped fine or ground. One cup of cream sauce, a tablespoonful of butter, two fresh eggs, a little minced parsley, and salt and pepper—both kinds—to taste. Mix the fish well with the sauce, beat in the butter, then add the eggs beaten very light, and mix all thoroughly. Put into a buttered souffle case, slip inside a bag, and cook in a very moderate oven half an hour.

For fish pudding take a pint of boiled fish, grind it fine, add to it one and a half tablespoonfuls of butter, half a tablespoonful of flour, one teaspoonful of salt, a quarter of a teaspoonful of pepper, and the same of onion juice. Mix all well and set in hot water while you beat two eggs very light with half a cup of sweet milk. Pour the mixture on the fish and beat hard, keeping it over the hot water. When it is hot through, pour it into the prepared bag, keeping the shape as round as possible, tie the bag-top together firmly, and set on a trivet, in a moderate oven for half an hour. This should set it firmly.

Fish rolls are fine for breakfast or luncheon. Mince cooked fish fine, season well, and heat in a rich cream sauce along with the crumbs scooped from the hearts of breakfast rolls. Cut a thin slice from the top of the rolls before beginning to scoop them. Leave only the hard crust. Fill the rolls with the mixture, grate a little hard-boiled egg-yolk over them, seal in a paper bag, and crisp for seven minutes in a hot oven.

Planked fish is not beyond the paper bag. Get a half-inch oak plank out to a size to go easily inside a big bag. Make it very hot under the gas flame, butter it well, then lay on it the fish, cleaned, seasoned, buttered all over, and spread as flat as possible. Slip into a greased bag and cook for half to three-quarters of an hour in a hot oven. There should be a trivet under the bag the same as if it held no plank. Make a peep hole to find out if the fish is well done—it had better be nearly in the middle, so no gravy will be lost.

Boiled fish, creamed, suits many palates, especially those of tender age. Let the fish get cold, free it of skin and bone, and then flake, but not fine. Put a layer of it in the bottom of a buttered souffle case, dot with bits of butter, dust with salt and cayenne, and add a few fried crumbs. Cover with cream sauce, up to which spread more fish. Keep on with the layers until the case is full. Then cover with a thick layer of fried crumbs, squeeze a little lemon juice on, and bake inside a greased bag in a quick oven for fifteen minutes. Serve from the case, and garnish with hard boiled egg.

SELECT CULLINGS

A Russian Wife's Lesson.

In Russia the law obliges the wife to follow her husband wherever it pleases him to establish his residence. Formerly he had the right, if she disobeyed, to slit her nose. This barbarous custom has been abrogated. The husband now has other means to compel obedience to his will. The Princess Xenia Gallizia has just had proof of this. The prince inspired her with more than antipathy. She told him so and announced that she was going to quit him. "We shall see," said the prince, with a smile.

He went from Kharkov, where he lived, to Kourgan, which is in the heart of Siberia, and by letter invited his wife to join him. She refused. He then caused her to be arrested by the police and brought to him on foot with a convoy of convicts, so Le Cri de Paris relates. She had to submit to many indignities, slept on the hardest ground, was exposed to the most inclement weather and almost perished with hunger. When she at last arrived she was received by the prince with exquisite politeness and asked if the lesson was sufficient.

The Changing Map of the World.

We are inclined to think that the world is changing very slowly. But the maps tell a different story. The 1912 world maps will look materially different from those of 1911, and when one comes to compare the one of 1910 with that which will mark the close of 1915 it will probably be found that the changes are marvelous. This year we see the Moslem, as a ruler, expelled from north Africa as the Italian map that covers Tripoli. France and Spain now control Morocco. Egypt has finally, to all practical purposes, become as thoroughly British "red" on the maps as Algiers has been French "blue." Now the indications are that the German "yellow" will extend into central equatorial Africa from Kamerun to the Belgian Congo.

The political map of Africa has completely changed in the last two years. The south is now one great nation, United South Africa, and in all the continent there is left only one great African state—Abyssinia.—Indianapolis News.

A Stock Market Romance.

Wall street speculators boast of their imagination. The average successful speculator has just enough imagination to get himself a living. The few speculators who grow rich have so very little more than one wonders what would happen if there ever came to Wall street a speculator whose imagination was equal to the vertiges. Then years ago steel common was distributed to a crazy trading public around 50, and the big sellers sat up nights signing their certificates for delivery, every one thinking it a miracle that the stuff could be sold at so absurd a price. Three years later the stock sold at 85. Five and a half years after that it sold at 94, and recently, after a decline of 30 points in a very short time on the government's dissolution suit, the stock touched the promoters' distribution price, and Wall street held its breath to see if the investment holders were not going to stampede. And at that promoters' price the stock yields the buyer 10 per cent on his money.—New York Post.

An Aviation Institute.

At Koutchik, near Moscow, there is established the most complete laboratory now in existence for the prosecution of researches pertaining to aviation. This institution has become the center of much interest within the last year or two. Here investigations are made of all questions relating to aerodynamics, and some remarkable results have been obtained, especially in regard to what is called the "autorotation" of bodies of certain shapes when placed in currents of air. It has already been made evident that there are many phenomena of an unexpected character which, when they have been thoroughly investigated, may materially aid investors and engineers in the construction of improved flying machines.—Harper's.

Laundry Prices in Russia.

If John H. Snodgrass, consul general at Moscow, ever kicked about his laundry work while living in the United States, he begs the pardon of every steam cleaning establishment, every slanted Celestial and every colored washday in this country. What they are doing to his collars and shirts over there in the land of the czar is horrible to relate. Besides that, the way they are soaking him in the matter of price is enough to make any American citizen utter loud wails of distress. For instance, they charge a nickel to do up a collar, and "the work is unsatisfactory, and the finishing is crudely done," he asserts.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Lot and Lost.

A Kansas merchant who had just paid a fine because his vegetable display box was not six inches higher than the sidewalk ventured the assertion that a man can't go from morning till night without breaking some Kansas law, no matter how careful he is. A hotel man thought he could, and a wager was made, and the next day was set for the test. "I'll win that bet, all right," said the hotel man. "I'll stay in bed all day tomorrow."

And he did until just before dark, when an inspector came along and arrested him for not having a nine foot sheet on his bed.—Kansas City Journal.

PREFERS BABIES TO PIGS.

Iowa Will Offer Prizes at Next State Fair.

Iowa has officially decided that the production of babies is of greater importance than that of pigs. At the next state fair the board of agriculture will offer $50 as a prize for the best baby, whereas the pig, with all the perfection he can display, may draw only $25.

Dimples, curly hair, the color of eyes and pretty clothes will win nothing for the competing infants. A stout calf will count for more than a handsome face, and a lusty yell, displaying lung development, more than a musical gurgle. This physical competition of youngsters is a scheme to make the Iowa baby stand before the world as the standard of physical strength. It was devised by the Iowa mothers' clubs.

To Farm a State's Roads.

Governor Carroll of Iowa has proposed that the width of that state's roads be cut down from sixty to forty feet and that the strips of land thus saved be turned over to the farmers for cultivation. He believes that forty feet is wide enough for a country road, but such a road will be better and more easily cared for than the wider one and that the twenty extra feet now all owed is simply wasted. The title to this land, if the plan is carried out, naturally vests in the owners of land adjoining the roads, as the state's right to it is simply for highway purposes, so the measure will be popular with farmers. It is estimated that 5,500,000 bushels of corn can be added to Iowa's crop and $3 per capita to her wealth if this land is farmed.—Youth's Companion.

SIGHT GIVEN TO DYING MAN.

Harrington, While Ill, Longed to See Members of Family Again.

With tears of joy streaming from eyes to which sight had been restored after eight years of blindness, Mortimer Harrington, seventy-five years old, died at Malden, Mass. For weeks during his last illness Harrington prayed continuously that he might see the members of his family once more before he died. A few hours before his death he suddenly sat up in bed and cried: "I see! I see!"

The family gathered around, and one by one the dying man recognized his loved ones. The respite from his blindness was brief, but Harrington died with a smile on his face.

Resolutions Adopted by The Bank of Hardinsburg

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Bank of Hardinsburg & Trust Co., held at Hardinsburg, Ky., on Monday, April 22, 1912, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, Green W. Beard died at his residence in Hardinsburg, Ky., on the 18th day of April, 1912, after a brief illness, and whereas, the deceased has been affiliated with The Bank of Hardinsburg & Trust Co., from its organization until his death as a member of its Board of Directors, and was one of the original incorporators of said bank, be it resolved by said Board of Directors:

1. That in the death of Green W.
Beard, the Bank has lost a faithful, conscientious official, whose discharge of every duty was impelled by the highest ideals of strict honesty and due regard for the rights of all persons having business associations or affiliations with said bank.

2. That each director personally feels a bereavement in the loss of Mr.
Beard whose business and private life was monumental in its purity and adherence to that which was inherently right in all matters.

3. That it is the sense of the Directors that not only does The Bank of Hardinsburg & Trust Co., lose a valuable and esteemed citizen, but the community at large is deprived of one of its foremost citizens, a christian gentleman, closely, sincerely and faithfully allied to the church of his choice, the M. E. Church, South, whose life reflected unmistakably his sincerity of purpose in his religious convictions.

4. That these resolutions be spread upon the record books of The Bank of Hardinsburg & Trust Co., and a copy of them be delivered to his faithful wife who survives him, and other members of his family, and that they be published in The Breckenridge News and The Leader.

DOUBLY PROVEN

Cloverport Readers Can No Longer Doubt the Evidence.

This grateful citizen testified long ago.

Told of quick relief—of undoubted benefit.

The facts are now confirmed.
Such testimony is complete—the evidence conclusive.

It forms convincing proof of merit.
Mrs. A. L. Alms, 607 Locust St.,
Owensboro, Ky., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills with good results and consider them a superior kidney remedy. Doan's Kidney Pills promptly relieved backache, difficulty with the kidney secretions and pains in the back and top part of my head. They were procured and we have every confidence in them."

The above statement was given May 9, 1907 and when Mrs. Alms was interviewed on February 20, 1912 she said:
"I have not used Doan's Kidney Pills of late, as the cure they effected some time ago has been permanent. You are at liberty to continue publishing my former statement."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

JAN KUBELIK

Will Be Given At The Armory In Louisville Thursday After- noon And Night.

An event of unusual importance will be the popular Kubelik-Damrosch festival concerts to be given at the Armory Sixth & Walnut Sts., Louisville, on the afternoon and night of Thursday, May 2nd. Not since the epoch-making visits of Jenny Lind and Adelina Patti, has a more momentous tour been arranged than that of the New York
Symphony Orchestra and Jan Kubelik.

A combination of the world's greatest artist, the Bohemian violinist, whose sensational successes have only been equaled by Paderewski. Kubelik and his magic violin, Damrosch and New York Symphony Orchestra, and the four soloists will be heard on both the afternoon and night programs.
Kubelik is the greatest living virtuoso and probably the most remarkable figure, all things considered, among living interpreting musicians. Though little more than 30 years of age, Ku-belik has raised himself by his own genius from the lowly station of a poor man's son to world-wide fame.

The beautiful tone and wonderful ensemble of the selected artists under the control of Mr. Damrosch has long been the source of envy for other orchestras. The seats for the two concerts are now on sale at the store of the Baldwin Piano Company, 425 South Fourth Street, the box office being open from ten a. m. until six o'clock in the evening.

It would surprise you to know of the great good that is being done by Chamberlain's Tablets. Darius Downey, of Newberg Junction, N. B., writes, "My wife has been using Chamberlain's Tablets and finds them very effective and doing her lots of good."
If you have any trouble with your stomach or bowels give them a trial.

Cotton Blossom Coming.

Confidence is a great asset, but that is what the show going public have in Mr. Emerson, Manager and owner of the Cotton Blossom show boat, as his patrons know that he always puts up a great play and high class vaudeville acts. This year he has outdone any of his efforts, as he has obtained from a New York Manager the rights to play the merry four act comedy-drama "One Girl In A Thousand," which is claimed to be the funniest play ever written, the cast is very clever while the scenic and electrical effects are very elaborate.

"One Girl In A Thousand" is a play that pleases both the old and the young and from press comments from up the river, it is creating a great sensation, as nothing quite so good has ever been attempted by a show boat Manager.

In addition to the play the Cotton Blossom carries five high class vaudeville acts headed by the Snukler Sisters dainty singers and dancers. The Cotton Blossom will exhibit here on Monday, May 6.
